

RetroHub Terms & Conditions

retrohub.org.uk

1. RetroHub is a search tool for locating events, services, organisers and merchants. RetroHub is not involved with ticket sales in any form and it is not a booking service. RetroHub does not accept liability for misinformation with published listings, nor does RetroHub accept liability for bookings, ticket issues, merchandise faults or complaints with third parties and/or members listed on RetroHub. This is not exhaustive and RetroHub therefore negates any claims, or otherwise inaccurate information found within a subscribed member's information. Furthermore, RetroHub does not accept liability for losses, damages or injury incurred whilst attending an event or purchasing from a member, any goods or services or other bookings from information listed and/or advertised.
2. RetroHub does not accept liability for content available within listed content that maybe interpreted as offensive or politically incorrect in any way. RetroHub, will, however make every effort to vet information supplied to the best of its ability and will further act upon such harmful content or material, once brought to the attention of our admin team
3. RetroHub app and website shall be available for users to access products, services and events via links listed within member's information. The service will always be free for users.
4. Any subscription paying member's product or service or other information, is not to be used for commercial purposes.
5. Subscription paying members provide their express permission for RetroHub to market and advertise their data and information supplied; and to promote their events, services and products as they see fit.
6. It is the responsibility of subscribed members to keep all pertinent information and imagery up to date and supplied to RetroHub accordingly.
7. RetroHub reserves the right to update, change and otherwise revise terms and conditions without notice.
8. By using the RetroHub app and/or web, you are in doing so, agreeing to all terms and conditions valid at the time of use. Members who subscribe to RetroHub, do so with full agreement to all terms and conditions supplied to them at the time of application of their listing and at term renewal. Any updates or changes to terms and conditions will be available to all users and subscribed members on the RetroHub app and website. It is the responsibility of subscribed members to make themselves aware of any changes or updates, however, RetroHub will be mindful to ensure subscribed members are made aware of material changes that may affect the benefits or cost of their subscription.
9. RetroHub and RetroHub.org.uk are protected by trademark and copyright law (IPO UK00004318378)
10. Subscribed members may cancel their agreement at any time after 12 calendar months from entering into agreement with RetroHub. Any complaints or issues resulting in a request to terminate an agreement early, will be assessed in isolation to meet the best outcome for both parties.
11. RetroHub reserves the right to offer introducer/agent commission payments for introductions of new subscribers made to RetroHub.
12. RetroHub reserves the right to receive commissions for insurance introductions made from subscribed members.
13. RetroHub does not accept liability for any breach of copyright or trademark, or other protected licensing or information, found within our member's media, marketing or other advertising material.
14. Users of RetroHub are bound to our subscribers' conditions of purchase and/or conditions of booking made directly with subscribers. RetroHub does not accept liability for misuse, fraudulent activity or non-compliance of subscribers' terms and conditions from any user of RetroHub.